Section 1 of 3

LinkedIn Articles

Prompt #01 — Thought Leadership Essay (1500-2500 words)

Establish authority on a topic with a genuinely original point of view.

You are a ghostwriter for Fortune 500 executives and leading entrepreneurs. Write a long-form LinkedIn article establishing the author as a thought leader on a chosen topic.

Deliver:

1. Headline: controversial or counterintuitive claim (60 chars max)
2. Hook: specific scene, stat, or bold statement — no 'excited to share'
3. Thesis in one sentence
4. 4-5 body sections: conventional wisdom → why it's wrong → your framework → practical implications
5. Conclusion with a clear takeaway
6. CTA inviting discussion with a specific question

Placeholders: [AUTHOR NAME] · [TOPIC] · [AUTHOR EXPERTISE]

Tip: Never open with 'I'm excited to share' — it's the single most common LinkedIn opener and readers skip past it instantly.

Prompt #02 — Personal Career Lessons Post

Turn a career milestone or mistake into an evergreen, shareable lesson.

You are a LinkedIn ghostwriter specializing in personal narrative content. Write a personal career lessons post based on a specific career moment.

Deliver:

1. Specific, concrete opening scene (not a generalization)
2. The lesson learned, stated plainly
3. Why it matters to the reader's own career
4. Closing reflection or question

Placeholders: [CAREER MOMENT] · [LESSON LEARNED] · [YEAR/CONTEXT]

Tip: Specificity is what makes career posts shareable — 'I got fired in 2019 for X' beats 'I once learned an important lesson.'

Prompt #03 — Industry Prediction / Trend Piece

Make a bold, defensible prediction that positions the author ahead of the curve.

You are an industry analyst and trend forecaster. Write an industry prediction article with supporting evidence and a clear timeline.

Deliver:

1. The prediction stated in one clear sentence
2. 3 supporting evidence points (data, signals, patterns)
3. Timeline for when this plays out
4. Implications for the reader's own strategy

Placeholders: [INDUSTRY] · [THE PREDICTION] · [TIMEFRAME]

Tip: State the prediction with a specific timeframe — vague 'this will change everything' predictions don't build credibility.

Prompt #04 — Case Study Write-Up

Turn a real result into a credible, specific case study article.

You are a B2B content strategist. Write a case study article using a problem-process-result structure.

Deliver:

1. Problem: the specific starting situation
2. Process: what was actually done, step by step
3. Result: quantified outcome
4. Transferable lesson for the reader

Placeholders: [CLIENT/PROJECT TYPE] · [STARTING METRIC] · [RESULTING METRIC]

Tip: Always end with a transferable lesson, not just 'and it worked' — readers want to apply it to their own situation.

Prompt #05 — Contrarian Industry Take With Evidence

Take a defensible contrarian position that generates real discussion, not just outrage.

You are an industry commentator known for evidence-based contrarian takes. Write a contrarian industry take backed by specific evidence, not just opinion.

Deliver:

1. The conventional wisdom stated fairly
2. The contrarian position stated clearly
3. 3 pieces of evidence supporting the contrarian view
4. Acknowledgment of the strongest counterargument

Placeholders: [CONVENTIONAL WISDOM] · [YOUR CONTRARIAN TAKE] · [SUPPORTING EVIDENCE]

Tip: Always acknowledge the strongest counterargument — it's what separates a credible contrarian take from empty engagement bait.

Prompt #06 — How-I-Did-It Detailed Breakdown

Share a specific process or result in enough detail that it's genuinely useful, not just inspiring.

You are an operator writing a detailed process breakdown for peers. Write a how-I-did-it breakdown of a specific process or achievement.

Deliver:

1. The result achieved, stated upfront

2. Step-by-step breakdown of the actual process
3. Specific numbers, tools, or timeframes used
4. What you'd do differently next time

Placeholders: [THE RESULT] · [KEY STEPS] · [TOOLS/RESOURCES USED]

Tip: Include what you'd do differently — it's what separates a genuinely useful breakdown from a highlight reel.

Prompt #07 — Open Letter to Your Industry

Make a values-driven statement that resonates broadly across an industry.

You are an industry commentator writing an open letter format piece. Write an open letter to an industry addressing a shared challenge or opportunity.

Deliver:

1. Direct address to the industry/audience
2. The shared challenge or opportunity named clearly
3. A call to action or shift in mindset proposed
4. Closing that reinforces shared purpose

Placeholders: [INDUSTRY/AUDIENCE] · [SHARED CHALLENGE] · [CALL TO ACTION]

Tip: Open letters work best when they name a shared frustration everyone feels but few say publicly.

Section 2 of 3

Newsletter Issues

Prompt #08 — Weekly Insights Issue (Curated Links + Commentary)

Build a recurring newsletter format readers actually open every week.

You are a newsletter editor for a professional B2B audience. Write a weekly insights newsletter issue combining curated links with original commentary.

Deliver:

1. Opening personal note (2-3 sentences)
2. 3-5 curated items each with a one-line summary and 'why it matters'
3. Closing thought or question to the reader

Placeholders: [NEWSLETTER TOPIC] · [THIS WEEK'S ITEMS] · [AUDIENCE]

Tip: Always add 'why it matters' to curated links — a link with no commentary is just a bookmark list, not a newsletter.

Prompt #09 — Interview-Style Newsletter

Turn a conversation into a newsletter issue that feels authentic, not scripted.

You are a newsletter writer specializing in interview-format content. Write an interview-style newsletter issue based on a conversation with an industry expert.

Deliver:

1. Brief guest introduction
2. 3-4 key Q&A; exchanges edited for clarity
3. Pull-quote highlight
4. Closing takeaway for the reader

Placeholders: [GUEST NAME/ROLE] · [INTERVIEW TOPIC] · [KEY QUOTE]

Tip: Edit for clarity, not for polish — a slightly rough authentic quote outperforms an overly smoothed one.

Prompt #10 — Behind-the-Scenes Deep Dive

Give subscribers a genuinely unique look at how something actually gets done.

You are a newsletter writer specializing in operational transparency content. Write a behind-the-scenes deep dive newsletter issue on a process, decision, or project.

Deliver:

1. What's being revealed and why it's normally hidden
2. Step-by-step or decision-by-decision walkthrough
3. An honest struggle or mistake included
4. Takeaway the reader can apply

Placeholders: [PROCESS/DECISION] · [KEY DETAILS] · [HONEST STRUGGLE]

Tip: Include one honest struggle or mistake — pure highlight reels get less trust and lower open rates over time.

Prompt #11 — Monthly Industry Roundup

Summarize a month of industry news into a digestible, opinionated roundup.

You are an industry newsletter editor. Write a monthly industry roundup newsletter issue with editorial commentary.

Deliver:

1. Top 3-5 developments of the month
2. One-line 'so what' for each item
3. Editorial take on the month's biggest theme
4. Preview of what to watch next month

Placeholders: [INDUSTRY] · [MONTH'S KEY DEVELOPMENTS] · [BIGGEST THEME]

Tip: A roundup with an opinionated 'biggest theme' section outperforms a neutral news digest — readers want a point of view.

Prompt #12 — Subscriber Q&A; Issue

Turn subscriber questions into a high-engagement newsletter issue.

You are a newsletter writer building community through reader interaction. Write a subscriber Q&A; newsletter issue answering reader-submitted questions.

Deliver:

1. Intro framing why this issue is Q&A; format
2. 3-5 questions with direct, specific answers
3. Call for more questions for next issue

Placeholders: [SAMPLE QUESTIONS] · [TOPIC AREA] · [AUDIENCE]

Tip: Answer the actual question asked before adding broader context — readers scan for their specific answer first.

Prompt #13 — Personal Story + Lesson Issue

Build connection with subscribers through a specific personal story tied to a broader lesson.

You are a newsletter writer specializing in narrative-driven content. Write a personal story newsletter issue that connects to a broader professional lesson.

Deliver:

1. Specific narrative opening (scene, not summary)
2. The turning point or realization
3. The broader lesson extracted
4. How the reader can apply it

Placeholders: [PERSONAL STORY] · [LESSON] · [APPLICATION FOR READER]

Tip: Start with a specific scene, not a summary — 'It was 11pm and the deploy had just failed' beats 'I learned about resilience.'

Prompt #14 — Special Report / Data Issue

Publish an original data-driven report that becomes a reference/link-worthy asset.

You are a research-driven newsletter writer. Write a special report newsletter issue built around original or aggregated data.

Deliver:

1. Headline finding stated upfront
2. Methodology note (brief, for credibility)
3. 3-4 supporting data points with brief interpretation
4. Implications for the reader's decisions

Placeholders: [DATA TOPIC] · [KEY FINDING] · [DATA SOURCE]

Tip: A one-line methodology note dramatically increases credibility and share-worthiness — never skip it.

Section 3 of 3

Growth & Repurposing

Prompt #15 — Talk/Keynote → Newsletter Issue

Turn a conference talk into a newsletter issue without it feeling like a transcript.

You are a content repurposing strategist. Repurpose a talk or keynote into a newsletter issue format.

Deliver:

1. Core message extracted from the talk
2. 2-3 key points rewritten for reading (not speaking)
3. One story or example preserved from the talk
4. CTA to watch the full talk if recorded

Placeholders: [TALK TITLE/TOPIC] · [CORE MESSAGE] · [KEY POINTS]

Tip: Rewrite for reading, don't just transcribe — spoken pacing and written pacing are different, and transcripts read poorly.

Prompt #16 — Podcast Episode → LinkedIn Article

Extract a standalone article from a podcast conversation.

You are a content repurposing strategist for audio content. Repurpose a podcast episode into a standalone LinkedIn article.

Deliver:

1. Single strongest insight extracted as the article's core
2. Supporting context from the conversation
3. 1-2 direct quotes preserved
4. Link/CTA to the full episode

Placeholders: [EPISODE TOPIC] · [GUEST NAME] · [KEY INSIGHT]

Tip: Pick ONE strongest insight as the article's spine — trying to cover the whole episode produces an unfocused article.

Prompt #17 — Twitter/X Thread → Article Expansion

Expand a successful thread into a fuller LinkedIn article with more depth.

You are a cross-platform content strategist. Expand a Twitter/X thread into a longer-form LinkedIn article.

Deliver:

1. Thread's core argument as the article thesis
2. Each thread point expanded with an example or evidence
3. New conclusion tailored to LinkedIn's professional audience

Placeholders: [THREAD TOPIC] · [THREAD CORE POINTS] · [TARGET AUDIENCE]

Tip: Add a real example or evidence to each expanded point — a thread's brevity works for Twitter, but LinkedIn readers expect more substance.

Prompt #18 — Article → Post Carousel Breakdown

Break a long article into a scannable carousel-style post.

You are a LinkedIn content format specialist. Break an article down into a carousel-style post outline (slide-by-slide).

Deliver:

1. Slide 1: hook restating the core promise
2. Slides 2-8: one key point per slide, scannable
3. Final slide: summary + CTA back to the full article

Placeholders: [ARTICLE TOPIC] · [KEY POINTS TO EXTRACT] · [CTA]

Tip: One idea per slide, no exceptions — carousels that cram two points onto one slide lose the scroll.

Prompt #19 — Newsletter → LinkedIn Post Teaser

Drive newsletter subscriptions with a standalone LinkedIn post that teases the full issue.

You are a newsletter growth strategist. Write a LinkedIn post teasing a newsletter issue to drive subscriptions.

Deliver:

1. Hook that stands alone without requiring the full issue
2. One genuinely useful insight given away for free
3. Clear, low-friction subscribe CTA

Placeholders: [NEWSLETTER TOPIC] · [TEASER INSIGHT] · [SUBSCRIBE LINK]

Tip: Give away one genuinely useful insight in the teaser — a post that's pure withholding rarely converts subscribers.

Prompt #20 — Article Hook A/B Test Generator

Generate multiple hook variants to test which drives the most engagement.

You are a LinkedIn content optimization specialist. Generate 5 distinct hook variants for the same article to A/B test engagement.

Deliver:

1. Variant 1: bold claim/statistic hook
2. Variant 2: question hook
3. Variant 3: story/scene hook
4. Variant 4: contrarian statement hook
5. Variant 5: 'what I learned' personal hook

Placeholders: [ARTICLE TOPIC] · [CORE MESSAGE] · [TARGET AUDIENCE]

Tip: Test genuinely different hook TYPES, not just different wording of the same angle — that's what produces a useful signal.
